

Tehran in War

The unreal that I have embedded in my photos is a hint for a society that moves away from ideals. What you see in this collection is my imagination of the last endeavor of society that to save its life in the face of this environmental crisis. In this collection, Tehran was a representative of all the victim cities, and these photos were taken in the last days of September ۲۰۱۹, when I was walking down .the street to study the atmosphere of Tehran was like a battlefield in my eyes
